INDIANS ASSIST RUNNERS WITH LIFT IN BOATS

Twenty-Four Miles Are Saved When Desert Dwellers Aids Marathon Men.

By LELAND C. LEWIS
I. N. S. Special Correspondent

Aboard Motor Cruiser America with Los Angeles-New York racers near Oatman, Ariz., March 12 — Good-bye California, hello Arizona, C. C. "Cross Country" Pyle's marathons shouted today as they essayed the role of the vulgar boatmen after a scramble to the banks of the Colorado river and started the climb that will within ten days surmount the Continental Divide at Thorau, 7,000 feet above sea level.

Mohave Indians, those desert tribesmen, who waited through the hours to welcome Quomawahu, Hopi Brave of Arizona, ferried the runners across the stream to the Arizona side where they headed for Oatman, the mining camp and the ninth control of the race.

At Needles, Cal., the eastern gateway to the Mohave desert that for six days tried the hearts of the athletes causing some 75 of the original 199 starters to quit, the caravan rested before pushing on the seventeen-mile jaunt to Oatman.

The co-operation of the Indians came after a most trying test, the fifty-seven-mile jaunt from Danby to Needles. Bridges along the great western river are few and far between and when the Mohaves preferred two score of boats to convey the runners across the turbid stream, Pyle quickly agreed. This service saved the men a twenty-four mile trek to the first bridge, at Topoc, twelve miles to the south.

AUTOISTS DROWNED

SOMERSET, Ky., March 12 — Jim Owens, 52, of West Somerset and John Owens, 43, Ringold, Ky., cousins, drowned late Saturday in the Cumberland river when the coupe auto in which they were sitting plunged off the Burnside Ferry, six miles south of Somerset, in 20 feet of water.

SWINDLERS HELD

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. March 12—After a chase lasting more than six months, two men, alleged by the police to be international stock swindlers, were under arrest here today. They said they were Milton Janis, 29, New Rochelle, N. Y., and Ira Janis, 32, his brother, of New York City.

WASHINGTON MAN AND TWO OTHERS DIE

Three Lose Lives When Automobile Backs Into Path of Interurban Car.

COLUMBUS, O., March 12 — Death, swinging an interurban car as his sickle, clipped off the lives of a man and woman instantly and fatally and injured another woman at 1:10 p. m. Sunday when a Columbus, Newark Zanesville tractor car crashed into a coupe which backed on to the tracks at 283 East Main Street.

Otto P. Hancher, 45, who worked on the farm of Noah Walston north of Washington, C. H., and Mrs. Helen Basham, 20, 869 Ellsworth Avenue, wife of Charles Basham, were killed instantly, and Hancher's daughter, Mrs. Irene Albright, 25, 216 East Town Street, died a short time later in Grant Hospital without regaining consciousness.

Quirk of Fate
The tragedy which brought death to three was, by a quirk of fate, at the end of a trip to buy flowers for a funeral. Hancher and his two companions were returning from near Pickerington, where a 3-year-old niece, Ruth Fern Basham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Basham had died.

Hancher, coming west, drove the car past the driveway of the Joseph A. Martin greenhouse in East Main Street, where he had intended purchasing the flowers for the funeral, and then backed up and into the driveway across the interurban tracks.

Martin, who witnessed the accident, attempted to warn the trio of the approaching interurban, but failed.

Auto Demolished
Force of the impact demolished the auto, hurled Mrs. Basham 90 feet across Main Street, threw Mrs. Albright half that distance, and hurled Hancher into the ditch.

Motorman L. S. Cory, 1168 East Mound Street, said he saw the coupe back on to the tracks when he was 50 feet away, but it was too late to prevent the crash. The interurban traveled about 400 feet before stopped. Wreckage of the auto was scattered 100 yards.

The interurban car was so badly damaged it was unable to continue the run in to Columbus.

GEORGE V. SHERIDAN TO TALK AT ROTARY

George V. Sheridan, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Council of Ohio, with headquarters in Columbus, will address the Circleville Rotary club in the Boggs hotel, at the club's luncheon on Thursday, March 22.

Mr. Sheridan, who is well known throughout the country, was formerly secretary of the National Association of Retail Merchants, and he is expected to have a highly important message for Rotarians.

Mexico Buys Less From United States

MEXICO CITY, March 10 — (UP)—Mexican importations of United States manufactured goods have greatly decreased during the past year and a half since the expansion of industry at home, a department of industry, commerce and labor statement says. Importations of shoes, flour and cement are among those which are cited as on the decrease since the campaign in behalf of Mexican-made products was first begun in 1926.

The response from all parts of the country to the invitation to buy Mexican goods has been most favorable, says the statement. "Through this campaign we are building a solid industrial system by which someday we hope to realize a complete economic independence. It rests with us to continue to follow with redoubled confidence a course which will enable us to satisfy our own necessities so that national prosperity will not be a rhetorical term but a tangible fact."

In Beauty Contest

Miss Catherine Marion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marion, of the Lancaster Pike, who will represent her sorority, Sigma Kappa, in the beauty contest now being conducted at Ohio State University by the Stage and Screen department of The Lantern, the school daily. The prettiest girl at the university will be chosen by the "ugliest man" in America—Will Rogers himself.

AMENDMENT TO LAW IS SEEN AS GREAT MENACE

Measure to Give Secretary of Agriculture Authority Has Opposition.

Progress of cooperative livestock marketing in Ohio and adjoining states is seriously threatened by the proposed Capper-Hoppe amendment to the Packer and Stockyards Act, says a message received by the Pickaway County Farm Bureau from F. G. Ketner of the livestock department of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation who has just returned from Washington, D. C.

The proposed amendment, according to Ketner's statement, is an omnibus affair which carries some good features. It is a menace in that it contains a clause putting all small stock yards, including some large feed lots, in the control of the secretary of agriculture with authority to close those yards for a period of five years, he says.

The purpose of this clause, Mr. Ketner believes, is to curtail or eliminate direct packer buying and marketing. Since 28 of every hundred cooperatively marketed hogs in Ohio last year moved directly from country point to packers, Ohio livestock producers are directly interested in the outcome of the proposal which is now pending before the National Congress, he says.

Mr. Ketner appeared at Congressional hearings opposing the bill in behalf of cooperative groups of producers from all sections of the country.

TWO LADS AND UNCLE VICTIMS OF DEADLY ACT

Children Die and Man Is Near Death—Estate Reported to Be Involved.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., March 12—Arrests in connection with the strange deaths of Richard Bohle, 4, and his baby brother, Orville, were reported imminent by Michigan City authorities today. The investigation was quickened by a report sent here from Chicago chemist stating that traces of oxalic acid had been found in the viscera of Richard.

Meanwhile, physicians are fighting to save the life of William Sims, an uncle of the dead boys. He was stricken with the same mysterious illness a short time after his nephews had died.

Chief of Police Richard J. Kruse, following a conference with Coroner Dr. Charles Mayfield and States Attorney Kunkle, was authorized for the statement that arrests may follow at an early date. Officials declared there were strong indications that the poison had been deliberately administered.

Hints Of Poison

Dr. Frank R. Warren, the physician who attended Richard Bohle and is now fighting to save the life of Sims, hinted the belief that he is up against a poison plot. He questioned Mrs. Sims, who he said admitted she had used oxalic acid to remove stains from clothing. She declared, however, there had been none of the poison in the house since last July.

"At that time," said Mrs. Sims, "I cleaned some clothes and then poured what was left in the can on an ash heap in the back yard and tossed the can away."

As the symptoms of the illness of the three were similar, the authorities concluded all had been poisoned with axalic acid.

Estate Involved

In the investigation under way, particular attention will be paid, it was announced, to a disputed estate in which the Bohles and Mr. Sims were to have shared.

Dr. Warren declares Sims had little chance of recovery. His pulse had declined to 50, his skin was cold and clammy and he had lost control of the muscles of his legs.

"Sims is a spiritualist. During a momentary rally he said he had been visited by spirits."

"They clusted about my bed," he said. "They have told me I've been poisoned, but they have not stated who did it."

Noctovisor Inventor To Visit United States To Display Apparatus

LONDON, March 12 — Britain is in danger, through official apathy, of losing the new invention of J. L. Baird, known as the noctovisor, which gives the power to vision in total darkness.

It is stated that this apparatus will pierce the thickest fog and will disclose the movements of troops in darkness; spot night flying aeroplanes, and simplify navigation.

But although British officialdom remains uninterested it is understood that several other nations, Germany in particular, have approached the inventor.

It is expected that Baird will visit the United States this month to discuss his invention with American authorities for use in connection with aerial work.

To Women's Clubs

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. 1819 Broadway, New York City, sends the following announcement to the towns of the United States:

The rural girl who comes to the big city to seek business success will no longer come unsupervised and unknown if the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs has its way. No longer will she timidly dismount from her train, timidly seek from the nearest bystander information as to where she may secure lodgings.

Under the direction of the National Education chairman, Miss Hester Smith of Denver, Colorado, the 866 clubs are this year making a study of the social and economic background of the rural girl.

In addition to this study the Federation will recommend to the rural school girls of America the type of educational training they should have if they are to enter business life in their own communities. If the rural girl intends to seek employment in the city her neighbor clubs will provide her with complete information concerning the conditions she will have to meet and the cost and standards of living in the city which she selects for her debut in the business world.

Not only will they do this, but when the plan has been worked out in its entirety Federated clubs in all parts of the country will help Already the Federation is exercising this type of supervision over young girls in the high and grammar schools who are to enter business. Older business women in the Business and Professional Women's Clubs advise with them in matters of vocational guidance often help them to secure positions, and in many instances finance their final year in secondary school if the pinch of poverty might otherwise force them to forego an education.

Love's Embers—Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

Lillian Belieres Veritzen Wants Noel to Marry Miss Lincoln.

"A right! Cards on the table," Lillian exclaimed when I proposed comparing notes upon the explanation of Philip Veritzen's conditions to Mary Harrison, which we each had written down for future mutual inspection a few days before.

"I wrote down but a single sentence," I said, sending the card along a little faster as in the mirror I saw the advancing lights of the utility car behind us which Jim was driving. "It was this—'Mr. Veritzen has told Mary she could continue her career as his dramatic protegee only on condition that she shut Noel permanently from her life.'"

"I didn't put it in quite such poetic language," Lillian glibly, "but mine meant the same. It was quite plain today to anybody interested as we are. But—am I right in thinking you have some more definite knowledge?"

"Yes, you are," I said slowly, "although I really have no right to tell you. But I know Noel wouldn't object to your knowing, and as for Mary, the poor child is so utterly miserable anyway, that I'm sure our knowledge wouldn't disturb her."

"All right," Lillian said impatiently. "The ethics of the thing having been settled, go ahead and speak the rest of the piece."

I flushed at her glibness as I always do, and hurried into the recital of Noel's interview with Mary which I unwittingly had overheard, and of the talk I had had with Noel afterward. I had barely finished when we reached the farmhouse, and she whispered hurriedly as she climbed down from the car:

"I'll be over to your room after everybody's settled down for the night. Wait for me."

I was so tired that I was almost asleep when her knock sounded upon the door, but my fatigue vanished at her first astonishing words.

"Do you know the way I've got this japed out?" she demanded. "Phil Veritzen's determined to marry Noel to Eleanor Lincoln. Why, Heaven only knows, and the information bureau's closed. But that's the notion he's got into that mulish old dome of his, and he'll sacrifice all his in-laws' and everybody else to carry his point. He's had experience with Noel's obstinacy before, so he's going comparatively light in that direction, although Noel's spelt to you today would indicate that his father is throwing out a few troling lines on the subject. But of course he has an absolute cinch with Mary. When Love and Ambition clash with that young woman, Love has no chance at all, a-tall."

"Did it ever occur to you," I said hesitantly, "that he might have traded upon Love as well as upon Ambition in Mary's case?"

She looked up at me in startled fashion, waited a long half minute before answering.

"I see your point," she said at last. "You think the old devil may have made it plain to Mary that he would as ruthlessly destroy Noel's future as here, if the friendship between them should continue. I wouldn't put it past him. When he sets out to get anything he wants, he's absolutely ruthless to a certain point. He has his own code and rigidly adheres to it. But it doesn't keep him from spoiling an idyllic little romance without any compunctions whatever."

She stopped and snapped her fingers in irritated fashion.

"That's that," she said with finality. "We know now where he stands on the subject of Noel and Mary and Eleanor Lincoln. But why does he want that girl for Noel's wife? That's the question I've got to answer before I can straighten out a puzzle which has dynamite and t. n. t. streaked all through it. Don't forget to keep your eyes wide open whenever Eleanor Lincoln is in your offing, and keep a mental record of your discoveries for my looking-over."

"Where You Can Always Do Better"

Tavistock Hotel, Old London Landmark Sold Soon To Be Torn Down

LONDON, March 12—(INS)—Another of England's famous landmarks, redolent with memories of a past generation, is doomed to extinction. The Tavistock hotel, one of the last of the London hostilities famous throughout the 19th century, has been sold, and the probabilities are that it will be torn down to make room for a modern building.

In its heyday, the Tavistock was the resort of such celebrated men as Dickens and Thackeray, and was renowned for its old-world atmosphere and hospitality. No women guests were permitted in those days, and innovations of every kind were fought against as long as possible.

Even in modern times the Tavistock hotel managed to maintain much of its ancient charm and personality. To the last, it had its faithful adherents, men who had known it all their lives and there are many who will miss its air of restfulness and distinct individuality.

"PREVENTION FIRST" GOOD HEALTH SLOGAN

Thousands of Persons Lose Days of Time and Suffer Needlessly Because of Failure to Observe Rules of Hygiene.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ERASMUS used to teach that prevention is better than cure. There is no doubt about this. Everybody knows it is easier to keep well than it is to get well. It is easier to keep than it is to reform. Certainly prevention is better and easier than cure.

For many years I spent my life "curing" people. One by one these sick people who came under my care had to be dealt with as individuals. I can think of few callings in life more satisfactory. To have the privilege of restoring a blind man to sight is equal almost to the joy of the person restored.

You can understand that this is no mean privilege. But I have come to believe there is a higher privilege, and that is teaching people how to avoid disease. When we discover the cause of cataract and can teach the public how to live so that nobody will ever have cataract, that is a higher privilege than operating upon the patient and giving back the lost vision.

Nobody can question that to bring up a child from its birth in such a manner as to guard against infection and disease is a great accomplishment. To teach a manner of living that will guarantee health all through a long life, means that we have added materially

Women Favored Secession

"Civil War and Reconstruction in Alabama" says that in 1861 the women were well informed in all questions of the day "and especially in the burning sectional issues that affected them so closely. They were strongly in favor of the secession after the event, if not before; they were even more unanimous than the men, feeling that they were more directly concerned in questions of interference with social institutions in the South."

LOANS UP TO $500

Robbing a mail train is about the easiest way to get money—and get caught. Occasionally some short-sighted person goes wild after a few drinks of moonshine and decides to pick on the poor defenseless government. Astride his fiery steed or his high-powered motor car he holds up a train and attempts to beat the law just because he lacks spending money. All fools aren't dead yet but they're few and far between. The thousands of more sensible and honest people borrow as they need on their own personal security.

It's but a matter of making your wants known at The City Loan to get the money you need without risks and dangers.

The City Loan

to the economic wealth of the world. It is amazing how many days are lost on the average out of every year of the life of an individual. If we could teach the rules of personal hygiene, and have them conscientiously followed, it would be true of every individual, not only that he would live longer, but that he would be much more useful to society and much happier than he could otherwise be.

This is a roundabout way of saying what Erasmus stated. Nobody can doubt that prevention is better than cure. Almost every disease a man has, almost every pain a woman suffers, almost every ailment that comes to plague the child, almost every one of these things is something that could be prevented.

When we come to accept this fact and to realize its significance, we will be ashamed to admit that we do not feel well. Sickness will be regarded as a reproach.

I hasten to say that we have not reached that point as yet. It would be cruel indeed to frown upon those who suffer, and to find fault with those who are really sick. But as the world progresses, I am confident we will reach a time when the importance of preventing disease will be even more highly regarded than it is at present.

Answers to Health Queries

R. C. S. Q.—What will cure nasal catarrh?

A.—Nasal catarrh requires special treatment. A good nose and throat spray is often beneficial. For full particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

M. J. F. Q.—What is the cause of shingles?

A.—Some kind of body poison is responsible for the trouble as a rule, but the exact cause is uncertain. You should have a thorough examination and follow your doctor's advice as to treatment.

Are you capable of winning one of the grand prizes in one week? Do you realize the value of the minutes this week in subscriptions?

Don't wait for another offer this is positively the greatest offer of the entire campaign. Nothing larger will be given later. Many candidates have the mistaken idea that at the end of the campaign a much larger number of extra votes will be given for the same number of subscriptions. This is absolutely wrong, for at the finish an offer allowing only one-fourth as many extra votes for every $20 in subscriptions will be allowed on this week's vote winning offer. Obviously then this week is when the hardest work of the entire campaign should take place.

The wide awake candidates will take the little old receipt book and get busy in dead earnest from now on. The time has arrived when every one should wake up. The sleepy candidates will be "left" in the cold at the finish unless they begin an active canvass for subscriptions among their friends. The "tip and at them" candidates will be after them every day from now until the close. The Rip Van Winkles will keep on sleeping and probably not wake up until April 14, when they hear the "toot toot," and the "honk, honk" of the proud driver of the Buick sedan driven by the liveliest and by far the happiest person in Ohio, who during the few weeks the campaign will have been in progress was not asleep on the job, but was out every day picking up subscriptions saving the hundreds of thousands of extra votes offered for subscriptions to the Herald Thursday. Keep your eye on the bonus vote for this week and when Thursday comes around, you will have enough subscriptions to walk away with a most substantial bunch of extra votes.

Arrangements Will Soon Be Completed For Air Service To East Indies

LONDON, March 12—(INS)—Arrangements are now being completed for the establishment of the first air service to the East Indies.

The route, over which mails and passengers will be carried, lies between Batavia and Surabaya at the opposite extremities of the island of Java. The distance is five hundred miles, and while the existing railroad trains take two days to make the journey, the flight, with one stop, will occupy but six hours.

Java is the largest Dutch possession with a population two-thirds that of Great Britain. The air-line will be operated by the Royal Dutch Air Lines. Forty-five volcanoes, many of which are active, lie in the path mapped out for the flight.

ROBINSON ENTHUSED OVER HIS HIGH PRICED TEAM

PITCHING IS EXPECTED TO WIN IN CHASE

President-Manager Admits His Crew Lacks Scoring Punch, Says It Will Win.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

CLEARWATER, FLA., Mar. 12.—The writer had the privilege today of gazing upon a $200,000 ball club. At least, the payroll said it was a $200,000 outfit, a fact that might be deemed sufficient to prompt the late Charley Eberts to turn turtle in his tomb. For the Brooklyn Dodgers used to be Charley's ball club and this once was Charley's money.

Years ago, in a moment of eloquence, Charley delivered himself of the dictum that baseball still was in its infancy. What he probably meant was that it soon was to go into its second childhood. When a ball club which holds the head of the second division as its abiding ambition, is willing to pay and does pay Arnold Statz a salary of $10,000 for the season, the faculty of reason fairly totters on its throne.

Wilbert Responsible

Mr. Wilbert Robinson, the open faced, Swiss movement president-manager of the club, seems to be sponsor for this policy of prodigality, although Charley himself was hardly the human stringency that popular fable would have him. However, it is to be doubted that he would have listened very attentively to Statz's $10,000 talk of salesmanship. Nor would he have paid Max Carey and Bill Doak anything more than polite attention; anyhow, not $10,000 each. It is an open question whether Jess Petty would have shaken him loose for $15,000. He probably would have granted Dazzy Vance his $20,000 but I fear that the capitulation would have been marked by that spontaneous enthusiasm noticeable in a man conceding a five foot putt.

As for David J. Bancroft, player-manager of the 1927 Braves, Charley would have had him arrested if he had requested a $15,000 contract plus a $30,000 bonus.

CAN HE STRETCH THE "RUBBER MAN?"

JACK'S LEFT SHOULD BE EFFECTIVE IN STOPPING JOHNNY'S RUSHES.

ALTHOUGH THE GOB WILL BE A HEAVY FAVORITE, CLEVELAND FANS ARE SURE THE TIRELESS RISCO WILL COME THROUGH.

SPLENDID CARD ARRANGED FOR FANS OF CITY

Red Wise and Bobby Calvin to Provide Action in Main Go On Friday Night.

On Friday, March 16, the boxing fans of Circleville will have the privilege of seeing one of the best cards ever to be staged in this city.

In the 10 round main-go to a decision Red Wise, Ohio River's best featherweight, clashes with Bobby Calvin, pride of Chillicothe. This is a rubber match as the boys have met twice before, each winning one decision, and both are out to win at any cost.

Red Wise, the little red headed crowd pleaser, is always in the ring fighting and giving the fans a run for their money. He has had 110 fights and has been kayo'd but once in his life.

Calvin a very modest chap is a terrific puncher and a clever boxer. His greatest feat is a victory over Dick McDonie, the boy who put Carpenter to sleep, something that doesn't happen very often.

The semi-wind-ups brings together a local boy and an ex-gob in a return bout. In their last fight Ned Renick and Sailor Marshall scored a double kayo but Renick recovered in time to get the decision. Marshall expects a different story this time.

Bernie Haynes, local boy who won the admiration of many fans the last time he fought in this town is expected to give Kid Stanley, of Lancaster, a tough evening of it.

Plenty of thrills will be uncorked when Red Heigel of Columbus, and Oscar Getrue, of Commercial Point, tie up. Heigel has been fighting on cards at Fort Hayes and at McCann's hall. Getrue's reputation as a fighter is known to be good.

Tickets are on sale at Mykantz or the Palace.

C. A. C. IS FAVORED TO WIN FROM LIMA

TUT JACKSON TO RE-ENTER RING

WASHINGTON, C. H., March 12.—Tut Jackson, for some time recognized as one of the leading colored heavyweight boxers in Ohio, but for the past two years out of the public eye, has been undergoing some heroic training for the ring. He is planning to stage a comeback here Tuesday, March 20, and will meet Jim Stone of Dayton in the main bout of the program to be promoted by the Emco Athletic club.

Art School Student As Yale Record Editor Big Campus Surprise

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 12

(INS)—Someone's always upsetting precedent at Yale these days and creating excitement among the undergraduates. The latest thing to startle and amaze the student body is the election of an Art School student to edit Yale Record, famous light magazine is sued supposedly by undergraduates. "A bad precedent," many students have declared, writing fervent letters to the news in protest.

Now the students expect that ancient "Lit," a publication in which many men who afterward became famous authors first saw their things in print, may be placed in the hands of a graduate school student and so remove another institution from undergraduate hands.

NEW HOME OF FARM BUREAU PROGRESSING

Favorable weather for building operations in Columbus has allowed rapid progress on new state headquarters of the farm bureau organization, according to word received at the Pickaway County Farm Bureau office. Formal opening of the new building is being planned for a date to be selected shortly after the first of May. The announcement received here. Every farm bureau member in the state is invited to attend the opening, and an effort will be made to have a representative present from every county. New headquarters are made possible through long term lease, by the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation, a subsidiary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, of a corner lot on East Broad street only a few blocks from the State House. Remodeling of an old building and building of a new section to provide 20,000 square feet of floor space has been in progress for more than two months. The new headquarters will serve the Federation, the Corporation, the Ohio Farm Bureau Service company, Ohio Livestock Cooperative association, Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance company, and other cooperatives and groups affiliated with the organization.

Soviet Plans Welcome From Charles A. Levine On Hop From New York

MOSCOW, March 12 —Charles A. Levine will be welcome in Soviet Russia at any time he chooses to fly to Moscow from New York and will be rendered every possible assistance, Osoaviakhim, the society for aerial and chemical defense, announces it wrote to the millionaire flier in response to a request about atmospheric and landing conditions.

The society's experts said they recommended June, July or August for the flight into Russia. There are ample facilities for continuing the journey through Siberia with landing fields at intervals of about 400 miles.

The Soviet press is manifesting greater interest in the proposed flight to Moscow than in Col. Lindbergh's lone hop across the Atlantic. Though nothing definite has been decided, stories about the possible longest non-stop flight on record are appearing daily.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

In Which She Answers the Question, "What's in a Name?"

"HOW do you like this plum-colored coat?" I asked Helene the other day. She replied with mock displeasure, "Your ignorance is refreshing. That color was called 'plum' when Grandma was a girl. Its latest name is 'raisin.' Really, as a model, you should keep up with the times." "Certainly," I answered; "but if they switch names on me overnight, I can hardly be blamed." "I know," she agreed. "It's a way these fashion people have. Grandmas just had the primary and secondary colors to worry about, whereas we have a multitude of the most cryptic names. There are not only 'beige' and 'faun,' and 'nude' and 'dust,' but 'bois-de-rose' and 'rose-fox,' and any one of a million more to add to the confusion." "Whoever originates them is more ingenious than that unknown respected power who thinks up the names of Pullman cars. It's really a clever dodge of dress goods manufacturers. Take this color that I'll take your word for as being 'raisin' — it's old-fashioned plum color all right, but under another name it sounds sweetly. The woman who is fashion's slave (and which one isn't?) will discard last year's perfectly good plum-colored dress merely because she has heard somewhere that a new 'raisin' color is the rage." "You're quite right," replied Helene, "but I shouldn't breathe a word of that in the hearing of a potential customer. After all, styles are such now that there are few radical changes from year to year. That plum — or — raisin color coat is more or less the same as any smart coat we sold last year. And I don't say that in any derogatory sense. Its shawl collar and cuffs of flying squirrel, its tiered lower section and kick flare make it a stunning model — as good this year as it was last, and may be next." "Yes," she concluded, "the more I learn about fashions, the more I realize that there's more than 'what' in a name."

Edinburgh To Isolate Sex Disease Sufferers

EDINBURGH, March 12, (INS)—Widespread opposition is being organized to a bill being promoted by the Edinburgh Corporation seeking power to isolate and compulsorily detain people suffering from sex diseases.

If the bill should become law, magistrates would be authorized, on the application of the local Medical Officer of Health, to issue a warrant for the detention of a victim of the disease.

Opponents of the bill point out that any extension of the idea would mean that about one in every ten persons would be liable to compulsory detention. Such a scheme would cost millions of pounds and lead to vast disorganization.

America To Lead Whole World In Passenger Carrying Dirigibles

CLEVELAND, O., March 12 — (INS) — V. R. Roberts, assistant aeronautics chief of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation at Akron, has predicted that America will lead all other nations in development of great passenger-carrying dirigibles, available helium gas in the world.

Speaking here on a recent visit, Roberts declared that "all other nations will be forced to inflate their airships with hydrogen, an explosive gas."

"The airship of the future is already here," Roberts said. Two are being built in Europe, and in our Akron office are complete plans for the greatest American dirigible and the plant in which it will be built."

New Type Different

"The new dirigibles will differ from present types," Roberts continued, "both in size and cruising radius. Motors will be enclosed on the hull, reducing wind resistance and mechanics will be enabled to work on them while the ship is in flight."

Specifications of the proposed Goodyear dirigibles follow:

Length—700 feet (40 feet longer than the Los Angeles).

Diameter—134 feet (54 feet greater than the Los Angeles).

The Goodyear airship would measure 145 feet from tip to keel as compared with 102 feet for the Los Angeles.

It would have a gas capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet against 2,400,000 for the Los Angeles and will cruise 6,500 to 8,500 miles as compared with 5,000 for the Los Angeles.

The two Zeppelins being built in Europe are expected to fly across the Atlantic this summer and in all probability will be put into regular trans-oceanic passenger carrying service thereafter, according to Dr. Karl Arnstein, vice-president in charge of engineering the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation at Akron.

The German Ship

"The Zeppelin incorporated in Germany expects to have the LZ-127 completed by May," Dr. Arnstein said, "and it will fly to this country in August. This ship will have such a margin of safety that it would be possible to make a non-stop flight with it from Berlin across both the ocean and the United States to San Diego, Calif. The other ship is being built by the Airship Guarantee Company, a subsidiary of the Vickers organization in England."

Many regular passenger lines are being contemplated by airships interests in various countries, Dr. Arnstein asserted.

"The LZ-127, which is being built for a Spanish operating company," Dr. Arnstein explained, "will fly to the United States this summer and eventually run on regular schedule between Spain and South America."

"A line from England to Egypt, India and Australia is contemplated by English interests."

"I believe the two airships which we are to build for the navy will stimulate interest in the airship sufficiently to create a demand for an American owned passenger service by airship, first class across the Atlantic and later across the Pacific."

"A hundred passengers could be carried on a passenger airship of the same size as the navy dirigible. It would have such a margin of fuel that it could sail from New York to within sight of the French coast and return to New York without stopping.

Margin of Safety

"Such a margin of safety would make the ship independent of weather condition. If the airship arrives at its destination and finds inclement weather or fog, it merely waits for good weather or the fog to lift."

The flight of the Navy dirigible Los Angeles to Panama is a recent example of the cruising ability of airships, Dr. Arnstein pointed out.

Arnstein supervised the construction of the Los Angeles which was originally the ZR-3 and under the latter name flew across the Atlantic in 1924, from Friedrichshafen, Germany to Lakehurst, N. J., a distance of 5,100 miles in 81 hours.

Dr. Arnstein emphasized that he does not regard the airship as a competitor of the airplane. "The airplane will always have the short and medium flight field to itself," he explained.

"But for long cruises, there is no question in my mind, that the airship is ideal."

Man's Place in the World

"Beware of soft jobs," said Professor Jack of Manchester college, Oxford, England, recently. "Man was not made for happiness; he was made for doing physical, beautiful, heroic work, and the only happiness he is entitled to as a right is the happiness that comes from doing his work with all the excellence that it demands of him."

Shut Out Barbarians

The Wall of Antonius was a rampart erected in the first part of the reign of Antonius Pius to check the northern barbarians of Britain. It extended from the Firth of Forth to the Firth of Clyde.

Just to Lay an Egg

Think of traveling 1,000 miles to lay an egg! Many of the quinnat salmon in order to spawn in the rivers of the Sawtooth mountains of Idaho travel a thousand miles from the sea.

Sluggish Hawks

The broad-winged hawk is not commonly sluggish and may perch motionless upon some dry treetop for hours at a time. If disturbed it will make a short flight and settle again.

ARAB TRIBESMEN MASS FOR "HOLY WAR"

Ibn Saud, King of Hedjaz and Sultan of Nejd (insert) and real bronzed desert Sheikh, is reported leading his Moslem followers to war against Emir Abdullah, King of Transjordan (at left). Three British mandate territories are menaced by the "Holy War." Already English bombing squadrons and troops are being concentrated along the frontier from the Red Sea to the head of the Persian Gulf. Sheikh Saud, lover of modern automobiles and radio and with a harem of 24 wives, is reported angry at the cessation of his British subsidy "paycheck." Picture shows camp scene of the warrior tribesmen in the desert.

BUST OF JACKSON TO BE UNVEILED IN STATUARY HALL

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(INS)—In America's Statuary Hall on Apr. 15, Andrew Jackson IV, of Los Angeles, a descendant of Old Hickory's adopted son, will unveil a bronze of the warrior-chief executive.

The statue, a gift of Tennessee to the United States, will be accepted by President Coolidge. When he was asked to take part, the President indicated that he more than welcomed the opportunity to pay tribute to General Jackson.

Claude G. Bower, eminent editorial writer, editor of the New Evening Post and author of "Party Battles of the Jackson Period," will speak on the life of Andrew Jackson from the historical angle.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will pay tribute to General Jackson's iron hand of leadership in cementing the states into a solid union.

Tennesseans of varied political allegiance, including Gov. Henry H. Horton, who recently succeeded to the office made vacant by the death of Austin Peay, will take part. The program will be broadcast, beginning with the concert by the Marine Band at 2:30 p.m., by the National Broadcasting Company.

The statue of Old Hickory is by Belle Kinney, a Nashville woman. Miss Kinney, wife of Leopold Scholtz, Viennese sculptor, at the age of ten won a gold medal from the Tennessee Centennial Exposition Association for a portrait bust of her father. A bronze of Andrew Jackson by Miss Kinney rests in nation's Hall of Fame in New York university.

The complete program follows: Presiding officer, Mrs. Flora Myers Gillentine, past vice president general; Daughters of the American Revolution; invocation, Dr. James L. Vance, minister First Presbyterian Church, Nashville; presentation, Gov. Henry H. Horton; unveiling, Andrew Jackson IV, National Anthem, Marine Band; address, President Coolidge; tribute, Mrs. James E. Caldwell, representing all patriotic societies; tribute, Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution; address, Claude G. Bowers.

Paris Style Hints

By ALICE LANGELEIR

PARIS, March 12 — (INS) — Clothes for men are growing darker and more subdued, according to early predictions for spring.

Colors for men's felt hats are more varied than they have been for some time. There are soft browns and slightly reddish ones; there are grays in a wide gamut of shades; there are beiges in large quantities and a few greens.

Coat-lapels on the latest suits are rather large and moderately pointed. Trousers are not exaggerated in width.

The latest in shoes seems to be the return of the buckle to replace strings or buttons. Some new models show three small silver ones and straps with the shoe somewhat wider at the toe.

The white silk handkerchief with a few colored stripes intermingled with white satin stripes woven in at the edges is very chic. There are some in very large size but made up of such supple crepe that they can be folded up into a very small space. Fine linens in white and finely-woven lawns are shown.

It is interesting to notice the increasing number of buyers for men's wear in Paris these days. Evidently American gentlemen, like the fair sex, now want to have a Paris label in their ties, hats or suits.

WARM WELCOME TO BORER ON ONE FARM

Control Forces Lease Ground In Northwest Ohio As Site For Experiments.

There will be one Ohio farm in northwestern Ohio this year which a corn borer with even that degree of intelligence which the corn borer may possess, will do well to avoid. On the 600 acres of this farm will be concentrated machinery and personnel, both human and entomological whose primary purpose is to make things hot for the borer.

The farm, near Toledo, has been leased by the corn borer forces as a demonstration and experiment farm. On it will be tried out and adjusted the machinery which is being developed to control the pest. There also will be trained some 600 scouts who will go out this summer to look for the borer and note the new limits of his invasion. At the same time insects which are being studied with a view to their value as parasites upon the borers, will be propagated and observed on the farm.

Some of the new machinery which will be put into action on the demonstration and experiment farm will include ensilage cutters, combination pickers and shredders, husker-shredders, baler attachments, stubble pulverizers, hand cutting tools, low-cutting binder attachments, slitter attachments for the binders, and rubbish burners.

The farm will be in charge of L. H. Worthley, administrator in corn borer control.

The Seven Weeks' war was a short war in June and July, 1863, between Austria and other allied German states and Prussia, resulting in victory for Prussia, which became head of the German states, and the cession of Venice to Italy by Austria.

1444 OF 7316 COWS EXCEED 40-LB. MARK

Cow Testing Association Records For January Tabulated By University.

Of the 7316 cows in milk, reported on by 28 cow-testing associations in Ohio during January, 1,444 or 19.7 per cent, produced 40 pounds or more of butterfat during the month, and 767, or 10.5 per cent, produced more than 1200 pounds of milk. The records have just been tabulated by the dairy department of the Ohio State University.

Among the associations reporting, the highest percentage of cows producing 40 pounds or more of butterfat was the Medina association, with 36.3 per cent. Second place went to the Wayne County association with 34.0 per cent, and third place to the Southern Trumbull County association with 32.1 per cent.

In the whole milk column, the North Trumbull association, with 28.1 per cent of its cows producing 1200 pounds or more of milk, was in first place. In the second place was the Medina association, with 23.9 per cent, and in third place, Wayne County, with 21.1 per cent.

Among the individual performance records on butterfat, the first place went to a registered Jersey owned by W. H. Miller of the Westerville association which produced 111.4 pounds of fat during the month. Second place went to a registered Holstein owned by J. I. Shafer of the Medina association, which produced 105.9 pounds of butterfat during the month. Third place in the butterfat column was taken by a registered Holstein owned by D. P. Blackmore, of the Ceauga-Lake-Portage association which produced 95.1 pounds of butterfat.

In the whole-milk production column, the leader was a grade Holstein, owned by J. I. Shafer of the Medina association, which produced 3100 pounds of milk. Second place was taken by a registered Holstein owned by Snyder & Thomas of the Licking County Association, which produced 2863 pounds of milk. Third place in this column was taken by another registered Holstein from the same herd, which produced 2862 pounds of milk.

Paul Hoskins, tester for the Columbiana County association reported that in one of the herds under his charge, which the owner was not feeding heavily enough, he persuaded the owner to select one cow and give her the recommended ration. In one month this selected cow made enough extra profit above her feed cost to pay the tester's wages for the monthly test.

Christmas Tree Trade To Work Under Plan Of Expert Foresters

DENVER, March 12. —(INS)— Supplying Denver and vicinity with Christmas trees during the last holiday season assumed immense proportions. According to the district forester here, 35,000 trees were cut and sold, while 2,500 more were cut but unsold. Fifty-six retail dealers were licensed by the city, one fourth of whom sold their entire stock.

The Pike National Forest region furnished the greater part of the trees. The cutting was carefully supervised by trained foresters, resulting in much needed thinning of overcrowded stands in the vicinity of Jarre Canyon.

A general movement has been instituted by the government forestry department and the Denver Chamber of Commerce to thin out stands of evergreen trees not only on government lands, but on private lands as well. Many private owners are giving their cooperation.

A. Preston Slosson, writing in Twentieth Century Europe, says: "Bolshevism came into being at a conference of the Russian Social Democratic party held in London in 1903, when the radical element had a slight majority over the more moderate element."

Looking For a Leader.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, the energetic young man from Montana who drove Harry Daugherty out of the cabinet, is discouraged about the American people.

The nation, he believes, is selfish and inert. If Lincoln himself were to appear today, the senator declares, he could do nothing because the people would be too indifferent to follow him.

It is hard to blame the senator for being pessimistic. He courageously made war on corruption in high places, and was rewarded by being indicted on trumped-up charges; nor was there any great outcry of popular indignation over the treatment he received.

Yet it is possible to disagree with him.

It is true that we seem far more interested in baseball, criminal trials, airplane flights, and new flyers than in our governmental leaders and their problems. But this may not be our fault so much as the fault of our leaders.

As a matter of fact, there is no country on earth where the average man looks so longingly for a capable leader as in America. Our trouble is that too often, of recent years, we have learned that our idols had feet of clay. We have grown somewhat suspicious; we have become clever at detecting shame. But let a really great man arise, or even a half-great man, and we are ready to go wherever he asks.

This explains, undoubtedly, our tendency to idolize our industrial captains. We look up to men like Ford, Sloan, Farwell, and du Pont because we recognize that here, for all their shortcomings, are men who are in their own way genuinely big. They may move in narrow fields, but in those fields they loom large. We are hungry for leaders, and since our politicians so often have failed us we are turning to the business man.

The American does not readily lose his capacity for giving himself to great leaders. There is grounded in every heart an inarticulate idealism, shy but ardent, eager to take command if only there will arise a captain capable of making the right appear. On every battlefield from Lexington to Chateau Thierry there are American bodies to testify to this. Sir Bertram Hayes commanded the big liner Olympic during the World War, and helped transport many English and American troops to France. In his recently published book of reminiscences he comments on the contrast between the troops of the two nations. The English soldiers, he said, were carefree and jovial en route to France; the Americans were sober, serious, "like crusaders."

That was it, "like crusaders." Whatever the historians may have discovered regarding the causes of the war; whatever may have happened since then in the rooms where treaties have been signed; the fact remains that we entered the war because the common American was convinced that by so doing he was serving a loftier cause than he could know otherwise. We were asked to give ourselves for an ideal and we responded.

Is that spirit dead, then? Have we lost our capacity for rising to high ideals? We have not. We are still looking for leaders. We have had a dearth of them of late. But we are ready for them.

Let a Man arise again—a man of genuine greatness, with a call of real service on his lips—and there will be a response to shake the world. America is waiting, now as always. Let every politician remember it.

Scientific Crime.

A good many recent statistics have seemed to indicate that the so-called crime wave was waning. There seem in many large cities to have been fewer crimes of violence recently. But if people get too hopeful about the decline of crime, then all at once some big breaks occur, and the miscreants get away with large sums in some spectacular raid.

Such for instance as the ones that occurred within two days recently, when a gang of drilled bandits obtained $50,000 in a Kansas City bank, also when a gang got $30,000 from a trust company near St. Louis. And then on the next day, a gang of six robbers obtained $133,000 from a train near Chicago.

The situation seems to be that crime is becoming a highly organized business, in which the bandits plan out their raids with science and skill, and carry out their plans with the precision of clockwork. This calls usually for a fairly good sized gang. After they get their dirtily obtained loot, they have to split it up into shares, and probably pay heavily for the cost of doing the job, so that the individual share coming to the robbers can not be large. These men are big fools if they only knew it, thus to spoil their future. The same amount of courage, skill, and energy, devoted to some legitimate employment, should bring them far higher returns.

The community needs to defend itself against such outrages with the utmost vigilance. Every service that handles money needs to study its methods, and inquire if they offer any temptation to robbers. When people are the victims or spectators of such hold-ups, it is a great help if they have sufficient presence of mind to notice any peculiarity in the conduct or appearance of the crooks, indications of that kind are often the means of capturing such rascals.

The vote in the senate is not pretty nearly a tie, but we suspect it won't prove a love knot.—Uhrichsville, O., Chronicle.

WE OFTEN FEEL

WE often feel
We'd like to Steal
Away from care and Strife,
And go along
And sing a song
And lead a care-free
Life;
But here today
In this great fray
I have a task
To do
That takes my time—
Ah, it's a crime—
Skies sometimes
Are not blue;
When once a boy
I thought it joy
To be a
Grown-up man,
And now I'm old
And Life seems cold
I'd like to change
The plan;
I pine each day
To steal away
And do some crazy
Thing,
But my great theme
And ethereal
Dream
Is just a fancied
Fling
For here's a job,
So with a sob
I answer Duty's
Call
Though I can't seem
To stop my dream—
A thousand times
I fall—

And what we mean to say
Is,
Go toil away but look
Today
For brighter things
To do
And do not vow
That you're lost now,
That you're really
Through;
The world's a place
Wherein the race
Is lost if you quit
Dreaming,
So be a king and
Have your fling
And watch the sun
Start beaming.

A lot of people like war. They're still living off the proceeds of the last one.

Prohibition seems to be prohibition of good liquor—there is still plenty of bad liquor.

There is a woman in this neighborhood, Bob Ryder has discovered who is greatly annoyed by the perfect health of the young child of one of our cigarette-smoking mothers but she has not abandoned hope that something will develop.

The reformers never like to admit success, Bob, or failure if you want to put it that way.

What discourages us most about the legislators is that they never seem to think we have enough laws.

THE JAZZ SINGER
NOVELIZED BY
ARLINE DE HAAS

"THE JAZZ SINGER," starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. picture.

tion of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

SYNOPSIS

Cantor Rabinowitz has trained his son, Jakie, to sing the Hebrew songs of the Synagogue. On the Eve of the Day of Atonement he finds his son singing ragtime in a "beer garden." He whips the child and "like runs off. Ten years elapse. Jakie, now Jack Robin, a jazz singer, down on his luck, meets Mary, a dancer whom he has long desired. Mary obtains a part for him in her vaudeville act. Back in New York Ghetto the Cantor still renounces his son, but his wife loves as much as ever the loss of their only child.

Mrs. Rabinowitz sank down in the Morris chair and swayed slowly back and forth, moaning softly to herself. After a while she pulled a letter from the front of her dress and looked long at the envelope. She turned it over and inspected the reverse side gravely. Then she held it to her lips and kissed it again and again. But she was interrupted by a knock. Quickly replacing the letter in the bosom of her dress, she went over to the door and opened it.

"Mr. Yudelson," she exclaimed. "Come in. It is a pleasure we should see you. The Cantor is laying down."

"Good evening, Mrs. Rabinowitz," Mrs. Yudelson stepped into the room. Save for a more perceptible thinness of beard and a few additional wrinkles, Yudelson, too, had changed but little with the years. "I just come to see how is the Cantor."

"He is a little tired, so he lays down to rest. Sit down, Mr. Yudel-

"Today is from Jakie a letter," Mrs. Rabinowitz began.

"Sit down," Mrs. Rabinowitz pulled a chair forward. "Today is from Jakie a letter. I want you should read it to me." Mrs. Rabinowitz brought out her letter and handed it to Yudelson, who took it and sat down near the table. He reached in his vest pocket for his glasses, adjusted them to his eyes, and began to open the missive.

Mrs. Rabinowitz drew her chair close to the table and waited impatiently for Yudelson to begin. Yudelson cleared his throat and painstakingly spelled out the letter. "Omaha, June fourth," he read. "Dear Mamma: I thought you would like to know I am getting along great in vaudeville. He says he has a good job in vaudeville."

Yudelson turned to the anxious Sara to repeat, in his own words, the contents of Jakie's message. "And maybe I will soon be a headliner," mumbled the interpreter. "He says he should become maybe a headliner."

"A headliner? What is?" questioned the puzzled Mrs. Rabinowitz, reaching for the letter to look at it herself.

"A headliner is a—a—a headliner is the best actor in the theater with his name on the electric lights. He should make plenty money."

"So, my Jakie is a headliner," Mrs. Rabinowitz nodded proudly. "Nu, what else?" She handed the letter back to Yudelson.

"And a wonderful girl whose name is Mary Dale got me my big chance out in 'Frisco,'" Yudelson read. "He says a girl give him his job."

"A girl? So, does he say what is her name?" Mrs. Rabinowitz asked eagerly.

"Sure. He says—he says," Yudelson reread the letter to find the name. "It is 'Mary Dale.'"

"H'm-m-m!" Mrs. Rabinowitz was becoming concerned. "Read it again what he says about the girl."

"And a wonderful girl whose name is Mary Dale got me my big chance out in 'Frisco,'" Yudelson repeated, watching his listener's face closely. "Nu, anything else?"

"No, nothing more."

"That's all?"

"That's all."

COLD FRAMES WILL GIVE PLANTS START

Alley Early Attacks Of Gardening Fever on Part of Lovers of That Art.

If undergoing an unusually early and severe attack of gardening fever, the householder can allay some of the pangs of the disease by using a cold frame which will enable him to set about the planting of his seeds early in March, according to Prof. Victor H. Ries, extension floriculturist at the Ohio State University.

The cold frame—which is in essential a box covered with a glass lid—will extend the growing season materially. Of course, a limited amount of planting may be done in the house. But, lacking a greenhouse or sufficient space in his dwelling, the gardener will find many of his problems solved by the cold frame.

"The box should be at least 12 inches high at the front," says Professor Ries, "and enough higher at the back to allow the water to run off the glass. If standard cold frame sash are used the box should be 18 inches high at the back, and 6 feet broad. A cold frame 3 feet wide will be only 15 inches high at the back."

"An old cellar or storm window sash or a light wooden frame covered with waxed cloth may be used, but the most satisfactory thing in the end, is the standard cold frame sash, glazed."

"Seeds of the hardier plants may be sowed in the cold frame in early March, and of the more tender plants in late March. They will grow slowly but surely, and will be much harder and more vigorous than those grown in the dwelling. Early radishes, lettuce, corn, cucumbers and tomatoes may be started in a frame of this sort."

"In August the cold frame may be again used to contain perennial seeds which are to be protected

Find Old Roman Ruins In Excavating Under Former Monastery Site

COLCHESTER, Eng., March 12 (INS)—Roman remains of first class importance have been discovered during excavations on the site of a former monastery here. Experts believe further investigations will yield remarkable ruins of England centuries ago lived and died.

Already there has been unearthed the original Roman gateway to the town; a mammoth drain down which water flows from some mysterious source; two rooms believed to be part of the public baths and tiled pavements, pottery, and mosaics. Plans are afoot to have the more important of the buildings preserved as public monuments.

Longest Bridges

In estimating which is the longest bridge in the world, the length of the main span is usually considered, without the approaches. The Quebec cantilever bridge over the St. Lawrence, 1,800 feet main span, is the longest. The new Delaware river bridge between Philadelphia and Camden, 1,770-foot span, is the longest suspension bridge in the world. If approaches are considered, the Key West extension of the Florida East Coast railroad, a 20-mile viaduct, is perhaps the longest. The Lucin cut-off across the Great Salt Lake is 20 miles long. The Cerno Voda bridge over the Danube at Constanza is 12 miles long.

Plan Garfield Shrine At Ohio Birth Place Of Martyr President

CLEVELAND, Mar. 12.—(INS)

—A shrine is contemplated at the birthplace of United States president James Abram Garfield, located at Orange, Ohio, here which is now unmarked, save by a dingy sign on a tree planted by the martyred president.

Scores of interested persons have promised their support in the erection of a fitting memorial to the 20th president, (who was shot and killed in the first year of his term as chief executive of the United States), on the site of the cabin in which he was born, surrounded by the trees planted by Garfield located near a spring from which "Jimmy" toted water for his mother." Rev. L. L. Wood, one of the persons interested in the Garfield Shrine project, owns the historical property which consists of four acres.

Garfield was pastor of the Franklin Circle Church of Christ here before the Civil War and was elected President of the United States while president of Eiram College.

BEEF INDUSTRY IS NOW CRITICAL

Dwindling Herds Have Supplied Increasing Quantity of Meat Says U. S. Bureau.

"Critical" is the designation applied to the beef production situation in the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, in announcing a recent study of meat production and consumption in the United States.

"For several years the beef-cattle situation has presented the anomalous condition of a constantly dwindling herd supplying more beef each year. Such a paradox, of course, could not continue indefinitely, and now that the turning point has been reached, it is all the more difficult to see any possibility of a rapid upturn in the industry.

Slaughter figures show a gradual rise each year from 6,163,000,000 pounds in 1921 to the high-record total of 7,458,000,000 pounds in 1926. During this same five-year period the total numbers of beef cattle in the country have steadily diminished year by year from 34,755,000 to 25,167,000. The latest estimate (January 1, 1928) shows a still further drop to 23,373,000. All of this indicates that instead of getting our beef from the natural increase of the herd we have been consuming the herd itself at an alarming rate.

"It is, therefore, not surprising that beef production fell off 626,000,000 pounds last year, and although imports of beef at the same time increased from 41,000,000 pounds to 82,000,000 pounds, the amount was not sufficient to affect the situation materially. The shorter supply of beef naturally caused the per capita consumption to suffer a sharp drop during the year from 63.4 pounds to 58.0 pounds.

"Production and consumption of veal in 1927 followed a similar trend to that of beef, although the changes appear less pronounced owing to the much smaller quantity involved."

Girls Fail In Bidding For Auction Cigarettes Of Rudolph Valentino

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 12.—(INS)—Memory of Rudolph Valentino was brought back recently when a dozen or more flappers vied with each other for possession of some of the film actor's specially imported cigarettes. They were offered to the highest bidder at an auction of unclaimed merchandise conducted by the United States customs collector.

The cigarettes, imported from Cairo, Egypt, were in two lots, one of 3,000 and the other 3,500. Higher and higher went the bidding, but after the $20 mark had been

FIND JULES VERNE NEVER TRAVELED; WAS "HOME BODY"

PARIS, March 12.—(INS)—Jules Verne, author of the celebrated "Around the World in 80 Days" whose centenary is now being commemorated in France, did no travelling to speak of. Like many other Frenchmen, he was a great home-body and preferred his little old town of Amiens to anyplace he ever wrote about.

Up at five every morning, Verne wrote his mysterious tales until reached, prosaic tobacco dealers bought the romantically associated weeds for $40 and $48, respectively, and the flappers left disconsolately.

ten, then strolled along the Boulevards talking with friends until midday. His afternoons were consecrated to reading and music which he adored. He took great interest in the national School of Music which was just then beginning at Amiens and attended every concert, good, bad or indifferent that was given in the place.

Good luck came to him with "Around the World in 80 Days" and "Michel Strogoff" which held the board for long seasons at the Chatelet theatre in Paris. Each representation netted him 600 and a very large sum. But in France, about $100 in those days in spite of his cahgne in fortune he did not change his habits and went on living in his economical manner.

His one luxury was his subscription to the theatre of Amiens, and he left it regularly at ten o'clock, no matter if it was in the very middle of the act, for his habits of early rising was adamant. Delightful entertainer of children he was always actively interested in their education and was a most helpful member of the Amiens school board for many years. During the last year of his life, Verne became almost blind and could only manage to find his way around by means of his cane.

Folks of Small Towns Set Styles Now-a-Days Say Clothing Leader

CHICAGO, March 12.—(Ins)—Where do the styles come from? The Rue de la Paix? Bond Street? Fifth Avenue? No.

"Hitherto," began the ponderous opus issued here by the National Association of Retail Clothiers, "it has been assumed that styles come from Paris for women and for London for men. This is only true in a minor sense of the word. Styles are governed primarily in America by what the average man and woman wishes.

The extreme styles of Paris and London and little favor in the average American home. "Clothing make clothes to conform with what persons in small towns and cities wish.

Literary Genius

Miss Myrtle Johnston of London is acclaimed by English critics as a real find. In addition to her literary talent, she is graced with her share of beauty and charm.

The school bank started off with a flourish, Wednesday at the Grade school, with Mr. Ralph McCollister's room showing 83 per cent; Mrs. Emma May's room, 100 per cent; Mrs. Margaret Thomas', room, 100 per cent, and Miss Mary Ford's room with 90 per cent. Just six cents short of forty dollars were deposited.

A picture of Miss Laura Brundige, of Columbus, was published in Tuesday evening's Columbus Dispatch. She is a member of a bowling club that meets on Tuesday nights at Gettrost's North Alleys, in the Women's Major League. She rolled a high score of 245, for all time, and a high score for three games, of 648. Miss Brundige will roll in the Columbus Women's Bowling Association tournament, to be held at Gettrost's North Alleys starting March 17. Miss Brundige is a sister of A. U. Brundige and Mrs. David McCorkle.

Five Months Rain In Seven Weeks Sets New Wet Record In London

LONDON, March 12. (INS)—Rain in England is as familiar as the 'bobbies' and the average Englishman takes the continuous spells of wet weather as a matter of course, but even he has received a shock from the weather reports for this new year, which not only surpasses the records for the past six 'rainy' years but give all promise of more decidedly, wet weather.

These reports are amusing in a sense, for they show that there has been five months rain in seven weeks. This discovery was made at the British Air Ministry's Moorland Observatory, near Dumfries, Scotland, and brings to an end the high hopes which were held for a "drier" 1928. Since January first the total amount of rain recorded at this observatory was 22 1-2 inches. This is equal to what normally falls there up to the first week of June.

Since 1922 there has been a run of "wet years" and meteorological experts had expressed the opinion that this year would see an end to the unusually rainy period.

Foreign War Veterans Urge New Pension Bill In House and Senate

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—(INS)—Forces of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., under the leadership of the state legislative chairman, are to be marshalled for a concerted drive in behalf of a world war service pension bill for disabled veterans now in the hands of the House Committee on Pensions in Congress.

Edwin S. Bettelheim, Jr., chairman of the national legislative committee, sent out an appeal from national legislative headquarters here today urging every V. F. W. post to contact its respective senators and congressmen stressing the need of such legislation.

The pending measure, known as

H. R. 9138, contemplates pensions for disabled world war veterans suffering from disabilities incurred in service but thus far excluded from Veterans Bureau compensation.

Architects Are Busy On New Buildings For Chicago's World Fair

CHICAGO, Ill., March 12.—Although the World war fair to be held here is five years away, prominent national architects already are drawing plans whereby Chicago will reap permanent benefits through new buildings of advanced design.

Under the plan which has been presented by consulting architects, Wacker Drive would be extended through Hearst square to the fairgrounds, giving the entire city access to the benefits of new buildings and business establishments.

The Fair year, 1933, has been definitely set, according to F. H. Bennett, consulting architect, as the innovation of a new era of city planning and architecture in Chicago.

GIVING MOTION PICTURE SHOW TO RAISE FUND

Franklin School Seeking Money to Buy Projector and Stereopticon.

Abstract thinking is the highest type of the thought process but no pupil can reach this realm of thought unless he has the necessary concrete experiences to provide a foundation for the reflective process. Thinking must have materials to work upon. A large part of the child's school life is taken up, if he is well taught, with the accumulation of such materials. The more definite and clear this concrete information is, the clearer and more accurate will be the abstract thinking be.

If the visual material is used to enrich the child's experience before taking up the study of a subject, the child will be prevented from forming incorrect images. For example, if the child is permitted to see educational pictures of the production and handling of articles of food, clothing, and shelter, previous to his study of home geography, how much greater will be his progress and efficiency than that of those who have not been fortunate enough to have had such opportunities for observation.

The teachers, parents, and pupils of the Franklin street building are attempting to raise funds for the purchasing of a motion picture projector and stereopticon. The first attempt to raise the money will be the presenting the picture, "The Silent Hero," Tuesday, March 13, 1928, 3 and 8 o'clock p.m., at the High School auditorium.

Any help which the public may be willing to offer will be greatly appreciated, especially by the boys and girls of the Franklin Street building.

Japanese Observer Sees Europe Fighting Dollar By a United Movement

TOKYO, March 12, (INS)—Europe is beginning to fight back against the American dollar, in the opinion of Kakichi Uchida, former vice minister of communications in the Japanese cabinet who has returned from a visit to America and Europe. He was adviser to the Japanese delegation to the International Wireless Conference in Washington last October.

"There seems to be a strong feeling among European countries that they must work jointly to resist the American dollar," Uchida said. "The industrial union organized some time ago between the French and the Germans is an expression of this sentiment."

The remarkable advances made by Germany in rebuilding its industries impressed Uchida.

We are a changed people, and even a red-headed boy can attend school without having a fight every day.—Santa Barbara Daily News.

WOODEN AIRPLANE MAY BE ENTRY IN PARIS-N. Y. RACE

PARIS, March 12—(INS)—An airplane entirely constructed of wood and capable of carrying eight persons may be entered in the Paris-New York race this summer. If it is successfully connects the two cities by air France will claim that her inventors were the first to design a practical trans-Atlantic plane.

This craft is the conception of Barraut, a wartime "ace". Raymond Saladin who is busy contributing articles on aviation to the Paris Press says Barraut showed the completed blueprints to Rene Fonck in 1923. Fonck is said to have exclaimed: "This is the best airplane ever planned for long distance flying." Fonck tried to help Barraut obtain 500,000 francs for construction and a subsequent trans-Atlantic attempt. They were promised oil, fuel and two motors.

Fonck, failing to find further backing, then gave up the project and went to America where he negotiated for the Sikorsky in which he narrowly escaped death at Garden City in 1926.

Barraut's brain-child would be powered with two motors in tandem. It would have double controls with two seats for pilots, thus obviating the necessity of changing places on reliefs. Its central cabin would give access to the motors while in full flight. Because of its wooden construction, the inventor says, the airplane's weight is exceedingly less than that of all other types.

Experts say the ship is one of the most unusual ever designed. Barraut and friends are now going the rounds of wealthy aviation enthusiasts hoping to complete the blueprint idea which the inventor hopes will take off to cross the Atlantic this summer.

The club has adopted a constitution and a set of rules, which are to be followed when a match is held. A match will be held sometime in the near future. The grand prize is a silver loving cup, which becomes permanent possession of the winner.

The Board of education recently purchased 50 tablet arm-chairs for the music and science recitation rooms.

The Jackson high school is working hard on the operetta, "The Gypsy Rover," and expect to present it on or about March 30.

WHIPPET WILLYS-KNIGHT

Hollywood

by Dave Keene

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 12.—Of the nineteen vocations open to women in the motion picture industry directing seems to be the inner shrine of the inner circle. Of the 338 recognized motion picture directors in Hollywood but two of them are women: Dorothy Arzner and Lois Weber.

Between them they made four pictures last year: Miss Arzner three and Miss Weber one. Miss Arzner, who started her career as a studio stenographer, directed: "Fashions for Women" and "Ten Modern Commandments" starring Esther Ralston and "Get Your Man," starring Clara Bow. Miss Weber directed "The Angel of Broadway" for DeMille.

But it is a fact that motion pictures offer a great opportunity to women. Here are the other eighteen vocations open to feminine talents in the studios: Acting, writing, accounting, stenography, publicity, script clerk, film cutter, casting, needlework, costume designing, set decorator, research work, hairdresser and beauty operator, portrait retoucher, wardrobe attendant, lady's maid, still photography, story reading.

Of these acting, writing and film cutting are the most desirable. Both Miss Arzner and Miss Weber spent some time as film cutters. Film cutting is film editing; splicing the scenes together in proper sequence, trimming the footage so that the action is smooth and brisk. Miss Arzner cut several of the Rudolph Valentino pictures. Her last before she became a director was "Old Ironsides."

This week's fashion hint comes from the beach home where Esther Ralston is enjoying a between-pictures rest. I found the blonde star wearing a long jade green robe over a green brocade pajamas, frogged and belted. She informed me that the pajama suit for "at home" wear is not only smart, but comfortable.

Many of the extra girls of Hollywood make their home at the Studio Club, which is sponsored by the wives of several men well known in the industry. The Y. W. C. A. also has an interest in it. The Studio Club resembles nothing so much as a college dormitory. Only in this college the courses are harder. I learned last night of a girl, resident there for the past several months, who wrote such glowing reports of success back to her mother in Indiana that the mother came west, expecting to find her daughter a star.

During her mother's visit the daughter left the club each morning, makeup case in hand, and returned each evening after "a hard day at the studio." The girl convinced the eager parent that "it would be impossible to visit the set." One day the mother decided to have luncheon at a new place. She found her daughter waiting tables there. The girl did not see her when she came in, nor when she left the cafe quickly. By a way mothers have the daughter is now convinced that "this studio work is too hard on me" and they are going home. I wish more of the girls had mothers like that.

A report is circulating of a director who ordered an extra to sit in a big chair. But don't hide that carved back, that piece of furniture is costing us $25 a day. And they were paying the extra man only $7.50.

I slipped into a little neighborhood theater a few nights ago to see a Tom Mix picture (I like 'em, don't you) and unexpectedly I "caught" a preview, as the saying is here. The film was Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose." I have never seen a finer motion picture, and it was very much to my surprise that I found myself holding that opinion at the conclusion of the show. I had heard so much of "Abie,"—too much, I thought. I rather expected it to be just another of those Jewish-Irish things.

But what a picture it is! Anne Nichols herself supervised it. Victor Fleming, the man who directed Emil Jannings in "The Way of All Flesh," directed it. Comedy has been subordinated to the drama, the pathos of the theme. Jean Hersholt, the Universal star, gives the finest performance of his career as Solomon Levy. I thought nothing could be finer than his work in "Stella Dallas." But Solomon Levy will make screen history. I presume we are to thank Miss Nichols.

I recommend a writer friend of mine to Mr. Pullman. Imagine what a man who names a non-descript dog "Herbert Frothing Grimsthorpe" could do to a sleeping car.

Bebe Daniels has just returned to work before the cameras after a new siege in the hospital. The black haired comedienne, the most active woman in Hollywood, strenuously denies that she is unlucky, nor will she admit that she should be more careful.

Her present enforced rest was made necessary by injuries she received when she was knocked from a truck by the overhanging limb of a tree while filming a scene for her current picture, "The Fifty-Fifty Girl."

During the filming of "Senorita" she was cut over the eye by a saber in a duelling scene with William Powell. During the making of "The Palm Beach Girl" she was thrown from the deck of a speed boat. A year or so ago she was hurt in Central Park, New York, when thrown from the back of a horse. But she refuses to take her injuries seriously and doctors and nurses have exhausted every argument they could advance in trying to make her stay in bed. In all this probably lies the reason why Miss Daniels' friends call her "Mike."

THE MOVIE DICTIONARY
Soup—The chemical solution in which films are developed.
Bank—A series of tube lights known as Cooper-Hewitts used in photography.
Up Front—The executive offices of a studio.

This week's advance production news has the interesting item that Fox is negotiating to purchase "Show Boat" from Universal. Johnny Hines may do a series of George M. Cohan plays for one of the talking picture companies. Raymond Griffith has been signed by Caddo, the company that will make the next Thomas Meighan picture. Warner Brothers are to open a studio in Germany. Richard Dix's next picture will be "Knocking 'Em Over," a baseball story to be directed by Fred Newmeyer, who made "The Quarterback."

LANDSLIDE KILLS 30

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 12 (INS).—Thirty persons were reported killed and at least 200 injured when a landslide from the peak of "Monte Serrat," a high mountain at Santos, demolished 50 buildings in that city. Santos is on the Atlantic coast, 25 miles from Soa Paulo.

Caterpillar a Delicacy

There exists in the eastern foothills of the Rockies a large moth, called the pandora. It has the longest life of all the moths, and its caterpillar larvae are particularly relished by the Pai-Utes in the Klamath region of Oregon.
